THE YEAR 1944

The year 1944 of the Christian era is a leap year of 366 days. July 4 will mark the beginning of the 169th year of the independence of the United States of America. October 31 will be the 427th anniversary of the posting of Luther's 95 theses and January 19 will commemorate the 381st anniversary of the publication of the Heidelberg Catechism. The year 5705 of the Jewish era begins at sunset on September 17, the 1363rd year of the Moham-medan era begins at sunset on December 27, 1943, and the 2604th year of the Japanese era begins January 1.

The Time

The time given in this Year Book and Almanac is that of St. Louis, Mis-souri (38° 38' north latitude and 90° 15' west longitude), Central Standard Time. Add one hour to find Eastern Time, and subtract one and two hours, respectively, to find Mountain and Pa-cific Time. Add one hour in each case to find United States War Time.

The Seasons

The seasons begin as follows: Spring, March 20, 11:49 A. M.; Summer, June 21, 7:03 A. M.; Autumn, September 22, 10:02 P. M.; Winter, December 21, 5:15 P. M.

Eclipses

During the year 1944 there will be two eclipses, both of the sun.

1. A total eclipse of the sun, January 25, visible as a partial eclipse over southern United States, Mexico, Cen-tral America, South America (except the extreme southern part), and northwest and central Africa. The path of totality begins in the east Pacific Ocean, crosses Peru and Brazil, and ends in north-central Africa.

2. An annular eclipse of the sun, July 19-20, visible as a partial eclipse over eastern Africa, central and south-ern Asia, and Australia (except the southwestern part). The path of the annulus begins in equatorial Africa near the eastern coast, crosses India, Burma, Indo-China, the Philippine Is-lands, and ends in the Pacific Ocean east of New Guinea.

Another year is dawning!
Dear Master, let it be
In working or in waiting,
Another year with Thee.

Another year of mercies,
Of faithfulness and grace,
Another year of gladness
In the shining of Thy face.

Another year of service,
Of witness for Thy love;
Another year of training
For holier work above.

Another year is dawning!
Dear Master, let it be
On earth, or else in Heaven,
Another year for Thee!

A CONTINUING TRUST IN GOD

A Message from the President of the Church

ON page 19 of a very excellent pamphlet published by the Department of United Promotion, under the title "My Church—Whence, What, Whither," appears a cut depicting a globe. It is girdled by a heavy band which contains the inscription "Love." The chapter of which this symbol forms a part carries the heading, "Our Government and Organization." We trust all of our readers will see this symbol and ponder over it. The Church has always thought of its mission of love in world terms. The use of the word "global" in its current sense, however, confronts us with a new challenge. It is both more inclusive and less inclusive. The dictionary informs us that the world embraces this earth, the globe, and the heavens. Nevertheless it is impossible to put the same limitations on "global" as on "world." Even our national conceit would not permit us to refer to a world series in baseball as a global series. We speak of the war of twenty-five years ago as the World War. This term is expressive of the pride of western civilization. Our world was at war. Today we speak of a global war. As never before the peoples of the west have come to be aware of the presence of other peoples on this globe. Australia, Africa, Siberia, Burma, Thailand, and the islands of the Pacific have entered into our experience not merely as so many places on the map which we tried to fix in our memories, as with more or less interest we pursued the study of geography. These places and the people who inhabit them have become a part of our life. Our sons and our daughters are in many of these hitherto almost unknown places of the earth. For some among us their soil has become hallowed ground, for in it their sons are buried.

A great bomber plant has sprung up within a few miles of our home. Daily test flights are made over the quiet village where we live. As we watch these great mechanical birds twist and dive, we know that within a few weeks they will be engaged in awesome conflict somewhere on this globe. And then our thoughts turn to happier days of peace. Other ships of the air, equally large and fast, will carry not bombs but passengers and merchandise, the things which do not destroy, but enrich life. They too will fly to all portions of the globe.

Our world has shrunk. Peoples of all the earth have become neighbors. Thus may a man write who in a few weeks encircles the globe and visits many races of many climes. To most of us just the opposite seems true. Our world has been enlarged. It is no longer the narrow environment in which we move, not America, not western civilization, but the globe. And now we discover that if we are to live in this kind of world, we will need to make adjustments both in our personal and in our national living. We are faced with responsibilities as well as opportunities of global aspect. As we contemplate these facts we find ourselves overwhelmed by the mere thought of them.

There is more that overwhelms us. We stood the other day, at night, under the skies of a southern State. The stars were almost dimmed out by the brightness of the lights flooding a great tract of land once given over to agriculture, but now the site of a great ordnance plant. The car shops of our home town covered a few squares. How we marvelled at their bigness, and yet we could grasp their size and understand the process going on under their roof. But we made no effort to grasp the situation which now confronted us. The mechanical and chemical processes in this plant, housed on a tract of land twenty-five miles square, we simply could not understand. And all the while we knew that here was only one of many thousands of the miracles of modern technology, all of them placing power into the hands of men—power for good and power for evil, power to build and power to destroy. This too overwhelms us as we contemplate it.

Then too we might speak of a global social unrest, of the aspiration of the millions of the earth representing every race and every color for national self-expression and individual freedom. Not only for freedom, at long last, from the present horror of war and the continuing fear of ever recurring conflicts, but the longing for the right of self-determination as a nation and the opportunity for a more worthwhile life for the individual. As thus we contemplate the world we find it caught in the process of change. What is old is passing away. Even those values which we believed to be the best in the heritage of a bygone age are being critically examined or ruthlessly destroyed. It is a world in confusion. Dare we hope that order shall yet replace the present turmoil?

Facing a world such as this we find ourselves tempted to exclaim with Remarque: "Little man, what now?" But then we remember that even the ancients, when they looked up to the starry heavens and saw something of the infiniteness of space and the mystery of life, turned to Him who dwells in and above all mystery, the everlasting God. Then it was that they learned to look upon life not from the perspective of time, but of eternity. They sought their help no longer in the horses and chariots of allies, but in the power of the living God. Man's sense of helplessness drives him either into despair or toward the never failing source of power which is found when he puts his trust in the Eternal. Thank God that in their present extremity many thousands refused to give way to despair. In faith they turn to God and find with Him new assurance and the strength to go forward unafraid. That is true not only of our sons who are in danger on land, and sea, and in the air, but of many of us who are looking out upon the world from our sheltered homes. Thus it is that we find on the part of many people a new interest in religion. As a Church too we would put aside our boasting in our own achievements and find glory only in our faith in God.

I might have written about our achievements of the past years as a denomination. Not vaingloriously, but humbly I might have given an account of a missionary enterprise heroically continued in China, India, Honduras, and even Japan, for of a certainty we dare assume that the members of our Church in the last named of these countries are continuing to witness unto Christ. We might have recorded the story of National Missions in urban and rural communities; the ministry to camp and defense industry areas; the service rendered through our chaplains and through our Bureau for Men in Service to those who are in the armed forces; of the outpouring of gifts for War Emergency Relief; of the ongoing program of Christian Education, Evangelism, and Christian Social Action; of Ministerial Relief; and the whole vast service of Christian charity. I might have gloried in the more generous undergirding of the entire program of the Church, which we specifically refer to as Kingdom Service. And indeed, we do thank God for the privilege of being permitted to serve through the Church in this manner, but somehow even the Church, although she has always faced the whole world as her field of service, now finds herself humbled by that word "global." It is so all-inclusive. Since all peoples with all their special characteristics and ideologies, with all their problems and aspirations, with all their vices and virtues, are our neighbors in the same sense as the man who lives next door, we come to realize as never before that we are confronted with a task which we can meet only as we turn anew unto God whose wisdom and whose power are available to us through Him whose life is the perfect revelation of a world encircling love, even Christ our Lord.

In this mood we turn to a reading of the twelfth chapter of Paul's second letter to the Corinthians. Having read it we pause as we meditate on his words, "For when I am weak, then am I strong." This strength was the gift of God, the gift of His grace. Looking out upon a world situation which overawes us, we need as Christians discover for ourselves anew that there is available for ourselves and for all men a source of power which is able to do more than sustain us. It will enable us, as in weakness we accept the strength offered us, to do mighty things for the transformation and the renewal of the life of the world. This day bids us reach out for a new experience of the power of the love of God in our lives. It constrains us to bear a joyous and glad testimony unto all men of that which God will do for those who trust in Him. If we are to live happily with our neighbor, we will need to bring him to a knowledge of God's saving and reconciling love. We will need to help him discover the will of God for his life and the grace which will enable him to live according to that will.

Today the leaders of nations realize that the peace and well-being of the world depends upon an inter-relationship of all peoples on earth based upon justice and fair dealing. Christians ought to be the first to recognize this as the only hope for the inhabitants of the globe, including ourselves. As Christians we believe that the vision of a warless world, engaged in building instead of wrecking, of creating instead of destroying, depends upon its recognition that the unity of the peoples of the globe can be brought about only if they are encircled by a common bond of love. Believing this we need pray for a more vital experience of God in our own lives. Having done this, we will need dedicate ourselves to a more devoted witness to all the world of Him in whom lies the hope of men. Recognizing our own weakness, we will turn to God. He is our help in ages past, our hope for years to come.

ENTHUSIASM FOR THE CHURCH

BY WILLIAM F. KOSMAN

WHEN the ark of the Covenant was being brought to Jerusalem, King David, we are told, "danced before the Lord." Later his ardor was somewhat dampened when his wife, Michal, who in cold disdain had been watching the procession from her window, said to him with scorn in her heart: "Wasn't the King of Israel glorious today!"

Enthusiasm for the church in our day is likely to be met, if not with open scorn, at least with raised eyebrows or disdainful silence. Secular society throws a blanket of social disapproval over any real enthusiasm for the church. It looks with tolerant eye upon whatever enthusiasm may be shown for business, movies or sports but any enthusiasm for the church it regards in questionable taste. Many church people are intimidated by this and, as a consequence, become discouraged and indifferent. It's the devil's own way of robbing the church of her power. The fact is that there is not the slightest need nor excuse for standing in awe before secular society in a day like ours when the hollowness of so many of its pretensions is so clearly revealed.

THE CHURCH HAS NOT FAILED

Another reason why church people lack enthusiasm for the church is to be found in the vague notion in their heads that the church has failed. It may be that they hear this accusation re-iterated by some worldling or other and seize upon it readily enough to justify their own indolence of spirit. Or, they may be sincerely convinced that the charge is true. In either case they permit themselves to grow careless and indifferent.

What many of us need is an experience like that of an old saint named Hermas. Hermas had lost faith in the church and was greatly discouraged. One day when his faith was at its lowest ebb, he saw the church in a vision. She appeared as an old, feeble woman—too infirm to stand and lay collapsed upon a chair. But then Hermas looked closer and now he saw that although her skin was withered yet her face was young and beautiful and she was standing strong and vigorous on her feet. This seemed strange to him and he looked again—and now there was not the least sign of feebleness. She was seated, an exquisite vision, in regal splendor upon her immovable throne. "What does this mean?", cried the saint. An angel made answer: "She looked old and infirm to you only because your own spirit had grown worldly and broken and unexpectant. God in his pity sent some faith into your heart and you saw that His church is greater than you believed. It was not she but you that was at fault."

Here is a lesson for our own day. The church has not failed. If she seems weak, it is because we have failed her. If she seems impotent, it is because we her children are lukewarm in our support of her. If she seems old and infirm, it is because our own spirits have "grown worldly and broken and unexpectant." Well may we pray God to have pity on us and to send some faith into our hearts so that we may see the church as she really is—greater and stronger than we knew and able to do mighty things for God.

WE MUST KNOW WHAT THE CHURCH IS

One still meets people for whom the church is just another organization to belong to—something to add an aroma of sanctity to one's secular life. Others think of the church as an association of people come together for convenience—to have a minister to baptize the children and bury the dead; a church building to be married in, etc.

What they and so many others lack is a true conception of the nature of the church. No man can have much faith nor show much enthusiasm for a church conceived in such terms. In such a church there is no power to live by—much less to save the world. No, we are not likely to be enthusiastic about the church if our conception of its nature is so superficial as this.

If we could go back and live among the earliest Christians of New Testament times, we would find them joyously devoted to the church. Motivating all their activity, surviving all persecution and furnishing them with a mighty dynamic was their ardent love for the church. What was its source? There can be little doubt that it grew out of their conviction that the church was the community of God's people. Each Christian felt himself a part of this community of believers and doers in which all were bound together by a common devotion to Christ as their Lord and a common belief that in his coming God had fulfilled his promises to his people and given them the Kingdom.

In other words, they had a sense of the unique, divine character of the church. They knew it for what it is—God's holy and beloved community called into being by Him through Christ to serve His purpose. They felt themselves part of it, identified with it. They shared its life. This in large measure was the source of their enthusiasm.

We can hope to match their enthusiasm only as we share their conception of the nature of the church. We must get rid of the notion that the church is a mere man-made institution. As a matter of fact, it is more than an institution, and it is not man-made. The early Christians were right: It is the body of Christ, the community of God's people. It had its origin not in anything that man did but in a specific act of God. When God came into human life in Christ Jesus, He hereby made possible a new kind of community among those who respond to His coming and own Him as Lord. The church is this new community where in His great mercy God makes Himself known in Christ and where the gift of eternal life and therefore the power of man's redemption can be found.

Since this is the true nature of the church, how can we fail to have enthusiasm for her! Surely, no disapproval by secular society, no indifference on the part of others, no spiritual indolence of our own can be sufficient to restrain us from giving her our ardent support. We are called to be a part of the on-going community of God's people. In our life together we are to be and can be the seed out of which the Kingdom of God grows in time, the segment of human society where the grace of God is experienced and the judgments of God are felt and pointed at all human actions and institutions, including the temporal church itself—if we could understand this, feel it, believe it, be overwhelmingly convinced of it, our enthusiasm for the church would greatly increase and the effectiveness of the church would be correspondingly enhanced.

WE MUST KNOW WHAT THE CHURCH CAN DO

But more! We can and ought to have enthusiasm for the church because of what the church can do. As the church is true to its nature as the community of God's people, it will perform its inherent functions as follows:

A. The church can worship—and by its worship direct men's thoughts to God. In worship we set heart and mind upon God, accept the forgiving grace which God in Christ offers, give Him thanksgiving and praise, and dedicate our lives to His service. This is the Christian community's primary activity and gives purpose and power to all else.

However, worship does not take place in a vacuum. Public worship has an effect beyond the life of the worshipping person and the worshipping church. It not only has potency to cleanse and invigorate the worshipper but it is the church's testimony to the reality and presence of God. Every congregation can be assured that by maintaining its worship on the Lord's Day on a high level of sincerity, it evidences before the world its own faith and thus points men and nations to God. Through the contagion of our faith and by the power of our example it is possible for the church, by the grace of God, to persuade the world to believe that there is One who is greater than man or nation and that the way to peace and freedom lies in the doing of His will.

B. The church can preach—and so hold before mankind the possibility of a new way of life. Preaching is a communal activity by the Christian community itself. It is not the preacher who preaches. He is merely the mouthpiece. It is the church that preaches and so bears testimony to its common faith and hope in the gospel of God. It is well for church people to bear in mind that preaching can be effective only to the degree that it is part of vital, whole-hearted congregational worship and emerges out of a supporting community life.

Against such a background preaching is essentially the proclaiming of the good news that in and through the coming of Christ God has made possible a new way of life for men and nations.

When men and nations respond to God's coming in faith and obedience and permit His spirit to enter their lives and affairs, this possibility becomes an actuality. Men need not forever follow a blind alley that leads to futility and despair. A new way of life is possible. Nations need not forever lay each other waste in mutual slaughter: a new world order is possible. There is a way that leads to life—and men and nations can walk therein if they will trust God and lay hold upon His redeeming and empowering grace.

This is the glorious good news of the gospel. To proclaim it continuously, in season and out of season, is the function of the Christian church—no matter what the attitude of the world may seem to be. Some day men and nations will awaken to the truth that the way of self-aggrandizement leads only to despair and they will be ready to try the new way of life that God has made possible in Christ Jesus. "My word will not return unto me void," says the Lord.

C. The church can teach—and so lay the foundations for the new life. By teaching the church can lay the foundations for the new life in the lives of its members and guide them in building thereon. In this way it helps to make the future. By holding young people and adults to its faith and life, conditioning them to the worship of God and the practice of the Christian virtues, the church can help to give shape to the world of tomorrow. If we can be sure of a body of Christian youth in the post-war world, we need not despair of it entirely.

It is imperative then that we strive to make the pattern of congregational life truly Christian so that young people may be fashioned and sustained by truly Christian influences, knowing that when we do this we do something toward the realization of the Kingdom of God in human society. Young people growing up in a Christian congregation or community and feeling themselves a part of it, are likely to remain true to the faith when they leave home and to exert an influence for the Christian way of life wherever they may go.

D. The church can practice brotherhood—and thus exemplify what the new life may be. On the foundation laid by its worship, preaching and teaching the church can practice brotherhood and give it expression through the Christian virtues of friendliness, mutual helpfulness, sympathy and goodwill. To the degree that this takes place within its community life, a congregation is truly Christian.

As such, there seems no limit to the good it will do. When a congregation practices its function of brotherhood it will hold sources of healing comfort and sustaining strength within itself for those maimed and crushed in body and spirit. It will serve as a haven of rest and peace for all distressed men and women coming to its doors seeking surcease from a world at strife. It will constitute a fellowship in which fear, anxiety, disillusionment and despair may be overcome. It will minister to the homes and families broken by the tragedies of life and inspire people with courage and faith. It will provide the locus in which men and women by faith respond to the coming of God in Christ and are redeemed from sin and guilt.

All this the church, as a Christian community practicing brotherhood, can do. This will not be without effect upon the world. If the practice of brotherhood by the Christian community is sincere enough and extensive enough, there will be some hope of brotherhood's getting into the peace treaty. If this does not happen, any treaty that may be made will be only a prelude to further war. Who dares to imagine what the world would be like if here, there, everywhere could be felt the influence of groups, congregations—communities of Christian people practicing brotherhood! Like leaven their spirit would permeate secular society, give it tone and temper truly religious and remake the world in the spirit of Christ.

WE MUST LET GOD USE THE CHURCH

These are the activities, then, by which the church may perform its true functions and realize itself as the community of the people of God. What is to the point especially is that by performing these functions the church demonstrates community to the world. In other words, if she is true to her nature and function, God can and will use her to point the way to community for the whole world.

There is nothing mankind needs more. The whole world is disintegrating for lack of it. Politically, socially, economically it is falling to pieces. Distinctions of race, class, color, nation are driving mankind into separate, hostile and warring entities. In each entity, the relations individuals and groups sustain to one another are mechanical and formal. There is association but no community. In our own country, the likelihood is that the unity created by the war effort is only on the surface and temporary. The divisive forces of our competitive social and economic life are merely quiescent. When the war is over they will again be active and will threaten ultimately to destroy us.

The plain fact seems to be that to survive mankind simply must achieve community. Man cannot live as a mere unit in the mass. He craves the sense of belonging. He wants to feel himself part of an organic whole in which he can exercise his gifts in free, creative service for the common good. Nor can the world continue forever divided into antagonistic national and racial units bent upon mutual destruction. It must achieve an order of life in which mutual trust and service are cooperative if it is to avoid collapse.

It is precisely here that the church can be guide and inspiration to all mankind. If it is true to its inherent nature, realizes itself as community and shows forth community to the world, it can, in the providence of God and by the very contagion of its example, convince at least part of mankind that its best interests are served by the pursuit of the common good. It is given the church thus to challenge mankind in the name of God to live as a family in which all distinctions of race, color, class, nation are transcended and all feelings of loneliness and despair and the strife that grows out of them are overcome in a community in which all feel themselves children of God.

It is evident then that great possibilities for influencing the world for God are in the possession of the church. It will utilize them to the degree that it is the true community of believers and does receiving the word of God and keeping it and performing the functions that inherently belong to it. No amount of pronouncements and resolutions passed by church bodies will have the effect that can be achieved by exhibiting before the world a community in which God is worshipped and His will is sovereign, where men treat each other as brothers and God's way of life is practiced and proclaimed.

WE DARE NOT BE AT EASE IN ZION!

Such a prospect should call forth the utmost enthusiasm on the part of all members of the church. By the grace of God we can, if we will, make the church an instrument fit to His hand for the saving of the world. No nationalistic, political or ideological enterprise of our time holds such promise for the future. How can any earnest member of the church remain at ease in Zion!

No! We must go about this business of being a church member with some enthusiasm. There is too much at stake to be indifferent. In a day when men give property and life to the state and follow secular leaders to the death, they will pay no heed to a complacent, indifferent church that has no conception of its character and no sense of its mission. They will say to one another as Dante, in showing Virgil through hell, said of those damned for their colorless neutrality: "Let us think no more about them but look once and pass on."

On the other hand, if our devotion to the church is sincere, if we participate in its God-given activities with enthusiasm, if we are eager to make of the church a genuine community expressing its life in complete obedience to God's will and in true brotherliness to our fellows—men will pay heed and the good the church will do will be incalculable. We need not fear—the Christ, if lifted up, will draw all men unto Himself.

A short time before his death, William Lyon Phelps, the noted teacher and lecturer, published his biography. In a most interesting passage he describes how he learned to appreciate music. When a boy, he says, he had no appreciation of music and no desire for it. But when a student at Yale he was persuaded to attend the concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra mainly by the fact that everybody who was anybody did so. At the first concert he sat through Bach and Beethoven bored and wondering how he could endure it to the end. As he looked about him he saw groups of people bored as he was. But finally he noticed one particular group so intent upon the music, in such absolute concentration, that they were lost to the world.

At once the thought came to him: "These people have something." At this his sense of New England thrift was touched. It was evident that they were getting their money's worth and he was not. He determined to find out for himself what it was they found and saw and heard.

So he came back again and again and, little by little, having started with no appreciation of music whatever and with no inclination toward it, he learned to understand it and enjoy it. Now, he says, nothing comes too stiff for him.

The application is plain. If others, looking in upon us—or even beholding us from afar—in our church life, in our daily attitudes and relationships, in our practices as Christians and church members, become aware that we have a noble conception of the nature and function of the church; if they see us absorbed, interested, enthusiastic; if they detect genuine reality in our professions, they will be convinced that we have something—something worth understanding and experiencing and they will want to have it too.

EXPLANATORY NOTES

1. In the "Memorable Days" section of the Calendar (pp. 4-15) the asterisk (*) and the cross (†) indicate respectively dates of birth and death. The numbers in parentheses following some names in this section refer to the corresponding day of the month in which they appear. This is done where more than one man is to be memorialized on the same date, the additional names being placed beside dates that would otherwise be vacant, with the proper date in parenthesis. The only alternative would be to omit some names, and place secular anniversaries beside vacant dates.

2. The Rev. Dr. William F. Kosman, author of "Enthusiasm for the Church" (p. 18), is the pastor of Salem Church, Allentown, Pa. The Rev. Henry C. Koch, who wrote "All One Body We" (p. 24), is the director of the Bureau for Men in Service with headquarters at 511 S. Western Parkway, Louisville, Ky.

"ALL ONE BODY WE"

BY HENRY C. KOCH

TWO major wars within the lifetime of most of us allows for considerable comparison. An interesting observation, though paradoxical, is the fact that the Church has found it much more difficult to reconcile itself to this war after the disillusionment following the first World War, when we naively believed that it was to be the last and final war; and yet that same Church has practically gone all out to see to it that her men and women in the armed services will receive the ministries of the church. With the encouragement of the army and navy itself, the Church has left nothing undone to see to it that those serving in the armed forces are kept in touch with the church back home, and that they receive the ministries of the church in the camp community as well as the services within the camp.

But to say that everything is being done to keep alive the contact between the church and the man and woman in the service, does not imply that we have as yet discovered what is the nature of this essential ministry. To define that ministry seems to be a growing concern of the Church. It is in this capacity of making available the means of ministry, as well as of interpreting the ever enlarging concept of what that ministry should be, that the Bureau for Men in Service desires to serve. It is becoming increasingly clear that whether a church packs cookies, sends bulletins or prayer books; whether the ministries of the camp community church are in terms of home hospitality, or other community ministries; or whether the church thinks of its chaplain in the camps as its representative—everywhere the question arises, what must the Church seek to stand for in the mind of the man and woman in the services, both as it relates itself to his present service as a member of the armed forces and as a future citizen of our country in the postwar world.

It might be interesting to turn to the letters that come to our office from those in the service. Almost without exception they convey two thoughts: that their religious faith is a source of comfort and strength in the hour of danger and anxiety, and that it serves to give hope that a God of love will bring this conflict to an end, if we have faith and pray to Him. Beyond that there seems to be no indication that there is a concern or interest in the matter of discovering the basic conflicts that led to this war, nor what must be the understanding for a lasting and just peace.

One could pose some disturbing questions to a Church that seeks to teach the Way of Christ and yet has failed to create a concern in these areas. On the other hand, we have hopeful evidence of an aroused public interest in problems of the post-war world, and a reluctance to wait until the conflict is over before taking steps toward realizing some beginning that looks toward action for a lasting peace. It is our feeling that no people have as much right and responsibility to be concerned as the men and women in the armed forces. One of our high church officials recently proposed that pastors, in writing to their men in service, consider these communications a rare opportunity to give direction in constructive thinking. In other words, letter writing may serve the ends of peace!

All of this leads us to say that our ministry to the men and women in the armed service is one of grave importance. Every selection we make of a prayer book, of devotional readings, of materials to go into the bulletin, are made with a view of serving this larger purpose. Our Bureau has endeavored to keep abreast of the best that is being published, and to make it available to the Church for mailing to its men. Materials are now being made available for use by chaplains in discussion groups. Increasingly more materials will be produced with a view to serving this end.

Our chaplains are doing a magnificent job. Testimonies come from the highest officials of the army and navy praising the services of the chaplains. Each chaplain is furnished with a Field Communion set if such is desired. Private sets have also been procured for several of the chaplains. Subscriptions to Youth and Messenger magazines for distribution in chapels and reading rooms are provided. Pamphlets in large quantities for general distribution among the men are supplied as funds allow. It is the director's duty to keep in constant touch with the chaplains of our denomination through mail and by personal visits as time permits.

The chaplain's duties are varied. He must not only know the spiritual ministry needed by the men but he must also know all of the army and navy regulations under which he functions. For this purpose he is given a thorough training before he enters the chaplaincy. A school for those entering the army is conducted at Harvard and for those entering the navy at William and Mary College in Williamsburg, Va. The executive director at the latter school is, at this writing, our own Chaplain Edward B. Harp, Jr., who served on the carrier Hornet at the time of its sinking. We also are represented at Harvard by one of our own men, Chaplain Walter Reifsnnyder, who is on the faculty of the school. Several of our men are Post chaplains, and two are serving in the offices of the Corps Service Command. Letters come to us from almost every battle front of the United Nations, so that we feel that our Church's ministry reaches to the farthest ends. Only the chaplain himself can describe the wide variety of services he is called upon to render. Counselling remains the most important. If it be said that attendance at chapel is not up to that of civilian attendance (which remains to be proven), the fact of personal contact through counselling touches a far greater percentage than in any civilian ministry. The chaplain is looked to for guidance on every conceivable subject and problem. Several of our chaplains have been called upon to minister to German prisoners in this country. A much larger ministry awaits us in this field.

It is evident, then, that the chaplain is in the enviable position of bringing such a ministry to the men and women as will prepare them both emotionally and intellectually, for a place in the post-war world. It will be the chaplain who will bring back from the war a sympathetic understanding of the soldier's viewpoint upon matters of international relations. They together will become an important unit in whatever world will be ours.

One of the innovations this war has brought about is the setting up of USO centers and other service clubs in camp communities. It amounts to a definite attempt to keep the soldier aware of civilian life, and help him obtain wholesome recreation under normal and desirable conditions. Though most of these centers are church inspired and relate themselves to the services of the church, it remains for the church to discover its own peculiar function for the man in uniform when he is a guest of the community in which it ministers.

There are several obvious responsible functions. First of all, such churches as have service men and women at their worship services will realize that the most important function is that of providing an opportunity for worship, with special reference to the needs of these worshipers. It is safe to assume that those who will seek out a church when away from the camp were faithful worshippers in their home community. As such they come to the church hoping to find the privileges they would want to find in their own home church. Among these are not only an opportunity to worship, but to meet Christian people of like interests, and to experience a Christian fellowship. It is therefore very necessary that every church make provision to meet these people, and that a hearty welcome is extended to them. If at all possible the soldier should be asked to dinner by some member of the church. His home address should be procured and a letter written to his parents. Here is an opportunity for Christian fellowship such as will greatly enhance the Church's opportunity to heal the wounded spirits of men and women today.

Food rationing has made it somewhat difficult to entertain men in any large numbers in churches for social purposes. There are, however, churches which occasionally invite a group of men to attend worship services, to remain for a social program in the church during the afternoon, and to close with a brief devotional service in the evening. This is especially desirable where the community does not make other provisions for the entertainment of men in service.

As the war progresses there will be increasing need for services to wounded men brought back to the States and kept in our hospitals. Churches near such hospitals should make contact with the head chaplain, and through him determine what ministries are possible. This requires careful planning and close cooperation with those in authority. Many of the wounded are also victims of shell shock and other nervous strains. As such they need the therapeutic value of mingling with people in normal life; but the program must be planned with care and under direction of those in charge at the hospital. Real Christian ministry can be rendered in this way and the opportunity should not be overlooked.

In many communities the shortage of housing facilities present a very real problem. Increasingly churches are setting up cots in available space, and men can find a night's lodging. This makes it possible for them to remain in the community from Saturday to Sunday without going back to the camp. Such services often open the door to further ministries for the men.

We have already alluded to the close relationship between churches and service centers. Every service center needs more than anything else responsible personnel, giving their time freely and voluntarily. It may be in leading group recreation, leading in song services, or the many other functions of these centers. An attempt is now being made to have church information desks in every such center. Experience has proved that women serve best at such desks.

We have left to the last what seems to us among the most important functions of the church within the camp community. It has to do with keeping an eye on the social and moral conditions of the community, and serving notice to public officials that it is expected that wholesome community life prevail; so that the men and women of our armed forces will know that the way of life they are defending is being upheld in the communities where they are guests. It is generally true that in a time of war the strain and preoccupation of the times may cause community interests to suffer. Here again a vigilant disposition on the part of the Christian people of the community can keep alive a sense of value and a communal spirit, thus directly contributing to a constructive philosophy, the community foundation for the peace to come.

We have only indirectly referred to the functions of the home church as it ministers through letters, special services in the church, sending of bulletins, program covers, bundles of cookies and candies, to the men in service. There is no ministry more important than the ministry of the home church. Nothing can substitute for the personal character of such a contact. Men and women are prolific in their praise of what the home church is doing for its own men. The Bureau has considered this emphasis the most important of all. When these men and women return after the war they will come back to the church of which they are members. What happened during their absence will have a great deal to do with how they will fit themselves into the scheme of things when they return. Many things will have changed and there is a possibility that a certain strangeness will exist. Other persons will have taken their place in teaching classes, in singing in the choir, serving as members of the Consistory, etc. Thus it is most important that while they are away, they remain in such close contact that they know the developments in every department, and will be familiar with such changes as have occurred. New members are being received into the church and the names of these new people and something about them should be brought to the attention of the men and women away, so that when they return they may be ready to feel at home with the new people.

Members of the armed forces have a definite responsibility to the home church. They continue to be members of that church and should carry their portion of the obligation. It is in this way that they consciously carry the church with them into whatever new experience they may meet. It is part of the duty of the Bureau to keep ever before them the fact of their Christian accountability, so that their witnessing may continue throughout.

An interesting development on the part of the Church has been its exploring of various ways to stimulate a vital faith in its men and to establish a feeling of communion and fellowship, though separated by many miles and by an entirely different mode of living. Churches have reported large attendances at prayer meetings. Other churches have planned elaborate candle-lighting services for those away. Some churches have reported special prayer and meditation periods held daily in the sanctuary. Others have conducted forum meetings upon world problems and have kept the men informed upon the progress of the discussions.

The Bureau for Men in Service is sponsored jointly by the Committee on Chaplains and the Committee in Camp Communities. It cooperates with the Christian Commission on Camp and Defense Communities, an interdenominational organization, responsible for directing activities in communities where, because of the heavy influx of men in service, leadership and guidance are needed to correlate and plan community activities. The director of the Bureau is a member of the administrative committee of the Service Men's Christian League which is the Protestant organization within the army, serving to bring all Protestant men together for study purposes and fellowship, and to emphasize the need for a commitment to the Christian Way of life.

The Bureau receives its financial support through the War Emergency Relief Fund.

I'll be as kind as I can be
 To all who come my way;
 I'll try to do a good, kind deed
 Today and every day.
 I'll try to lead a life like Him
 Who walked by Galilee,
 And "do to others as I would
 Have others do to me."

THE NOBLE NATURE

It is not growing like a tree
In bulk, doth make Man better be;
Or standing long an oak, three hundred year,
To fall a log at last, dry, bald, and sere;
A lily of a day
Is fairer far in May,
Although it fall and die that night—
It was the plant and flower of Light.
In small proportions we just beauties see;
And in short measures life may perfect be.

LOCATIONS OF CHURCHES

The location of every congregation of the Church is listed. Where the street location is missing that information was not reported on the statistical blank.

The name of each congregation is exactly as reported by the pastor. It is presumed that this is as the congregation is designated in its charter. For example, we find Saint John, Saint Johns, and Saint John's.

Please send immediately notes of any errors.

William E. Lampe, Secretary.

The surname of the pastor appears after the name and address of each church. Reference to city, town, or state in the "Register of Ministers" will establish identity; where necessary for complete identification, initials have been added.

Abbreviations: mi, miles; nr, near; N, north; E, east; S, south; W, west.

You Are Buying War Bonds—

WILL YOU BUY WAR BONDS FOR OUR HOME?

It will serve a dual purpose—you help our country NOW and you help our children—its future citizens.

We have brought thousands of children to fine manhood and womanhood, and many of our boys are now serving in the armed forces. To carry on this Christian training needs continual assistance. We have established a Trust Fund where we will place all bonds for future use.

Winnebago Indian Mission and School

The only American Indian mission of the E & R Church. Sixty-five years of missionary service—evangelistic, educational, medical and social; a Christian enterprise that has profoundly influenced the life of an entire tribe.

The work of the Old Mission at Black River Falls and of the Mission Boarding School at Neillsville conducted under our Board of National Missions; supported entirely by church contributions.

A blessed opportunity for individuals and church organizations to assist in interesting ways. For information write to: Winnebago Indian Mission, Rev. Benj. Stucki, Supt., Neillsville, Wis.

Bring Your Pipe Organ Problems to Möller

While the national emergency prohibits the building of new organs, we shall be glad to quote on the rebuilding of organs where essential metals are not required. Our organ service, too, is being maintained.

Meanwhile, the facilities of the Möller plant have been converted to an extensive program of war work. By so doing, we have been able to retain our personnel of skilled craftsmen and technicians. When Victory is won, these trained experts will be immediately available for building Möller instruments that will be finer than ever before.

"For People Old and Feeble"

This Home, one of the youngest of the Church, was incorporated September 22, 1930. It can accommodate fifteen guests. A long waiting list consists of many of our most loyal and faithful members of the Church.

Because they are old and feeble they are not wanted. Many must live in neglect. Their lives are just as good and precious in the sight of God as others.

We lack proper equipment and room. Will some one help us enlarge our present building and equip it for larger and better service?

THE GERMAN PROTESTANT HOME FOR ORPHANS AND OLD PEOPLE

West Grand Boulevard, Detroit, Michigan

Our orphans' and old people's home is situated in one of the most beautiful sections of Detroit. We cordially welcome Evangelical people who may come to Detroit to visit our institution. A Grand River car to West Grand Blvd. will bring them right to the home. . . . The home is under control of the Michigan-Indiana Synod of our Evangelical and Reformed Church and is dependent upon friends within our Church for its support. . . . Our Home is able to accommodate 125 children and 50 old people. To meet our daily requirement is quite a problem at this time as the conduct for our institution is dependent more than ever before upon the generosity of our friends in the Church. . . . We cordially solicit your interest and express our gratitude to the many friends who have heretofore supported us. . . . Bequests must be made in favor of "German Protestant Home for Orphans and Old People, Detroit, Mich." Other contributions will be gratefully received by the superintendent, Rev. F. Lueckhoff, 1852 W. Grand Blvd., Detroit, Mich. Phone: Tyler 5-8800.

"Old Buttonwood"

The Presbyterian Ministers' Fund had its beginning as the "Fund for Pious Uses" in 1717. Its birthplace was "Old Buttonwood," the First Presbyterian Church of Philadelphia, erected in 1704. For more than 225 years the Fund has been dedicated to the service of ministers and their families.

THE FUND'S SERVICE has broadened since that humble beginning. It is now dedicated to the service of ministers, their wives and theological students of every Protestant denomination—in foreign fields as missionaries—in large and small congregations as pastors—in seminaries as students—and in the armed forces as Chaplains.

Fifty-one Years of Service and Protection

This Association was organized and began operation in 1892 and has continuously operated during these years with one idea in mind, to help a brother when misfortune strikes him and his property is damaged or destroyed by the elements.

The Association is definitely affiliated with the Evangelical and Reformed Church and confines all of its writings within the denomination. Pastors are granted special privileges while carrying a policy with us.

Our office will at all times gladly give full information regarding privileges and operations of our Association. Church members can also avail themselves of our rates and procure their insurance through this office.

We invite all Evangelical and Reformed folks to write in for rates and full information regarding our policies.
